

A politician fighting to keep guns off the streets secretly becomes an international arms trafficker.

Capitol Crimes is a gripping political thriller that delves into power, corruption, and the hidden machinations of influence in American politics. Set against the backdrop of high-stakes government intrigue and international crime, the film unravels a tense narrative of ambition, deception, and the cost of unchecked authority.

At its core, Capitol Crimes explores the timeless struggle between loyalty and self-preservation, exposing the moral compromises made in the pursuit of power. As investigations close in and alliances crumble, the film forces its characters—and the audience—to confront the fine line between justice and political survival.

In an era where government scandals dominate headlines and public trust in institutions is at an all-time low, Capitol Crimes is more relevant than ever. With its mix of real-world inspirations and cinematic tension, the film resonates with contemporary audiences who crave thought-provoking, character-driven storytelling.

Capitol Crimes isn't just a thrilling ride—it's a story that speaks to the shifting dynamics of power in today's world.

Michael A. Richards | richardsma@me.com | 551-200-0768

Leland
Yee

A seasoned yet deeply ambitious politician, Senator Leland Yee is driven by a desire to climb the ranks of power in the world of government and influence. He walks a fine line between public service and personal gain, all while balancing the pressures of donors, political allies, and the looming threat of investigation.

Vincent
Rossi

A hard-nosed and relentless FBI agent, Vincent Rossi is fueled by an unshakable sense of duty and a deep-rooted belief in justice. But as the case against Senator Yee intensifies, Rossi must confront the ethical dilemmas that come with the pursuit of the truth—and the cost of taking on the system.

Budget: $30 million

Locations: New York City,
Philippines

Comparable Films:

- State of Play
- Sicario
- House of Cards
- Homeland
- The Town
- Narcos

Audience:

- Adults 25-55
- Professionals & executives
- Thriller enthusiasts who enjoy shows like Suits or Billions

A portrait of a young man with short dark hair, wearing a black button-down shirt. He is looking directly at the camera with a neutral expression. The background is a textured, mottled grey.

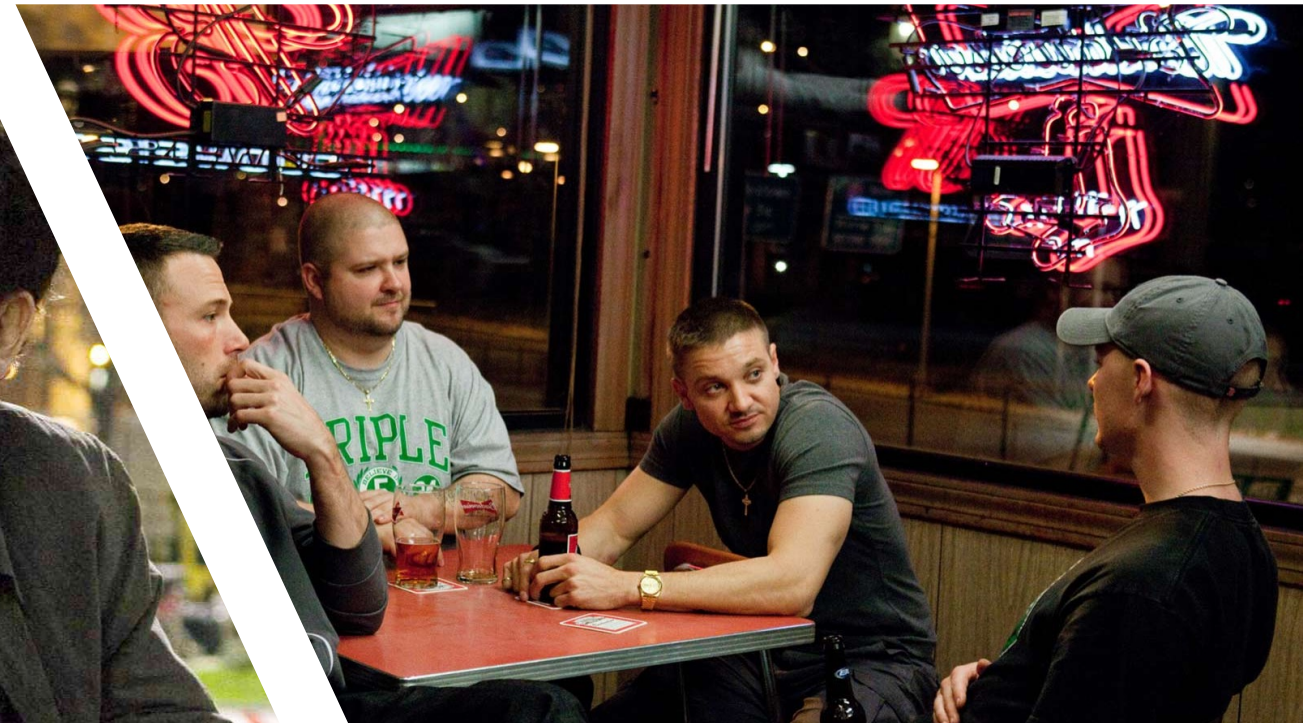

Jun
Chen

Young, restless, and eager to prove himself, Jun is the runt of the crew—too small to be feared, too inexperienced to be respected. Always the one taking orders, Jun dreams of something bigger, even as every choice he makes seems to pull him deeper into a world he may never escape.

A portrait of a man with dark, curly hair and a full beard, wearing a white shirt and a dark patterned jacket. He is smiling slightly. The background is a light grey with some faint text.

Keith
Jackson

A grizzled brawler of the political world, Keith Jackson knows how the game is played—and how to bend the rules to his advantage. But as the stakes rise, the deals get dirtier, and even a seasoned operator like Jackson might find himself in over his head.

Michael A. Richards
RichardsMA@me.com
RichardsMA.blog
551-200-0768